Middlebury Trackmen to Compete for State Title At Northfield This Saturday

VOL. XXX MIDDLEBURY COLLEGE, MIDDLEBURY, VT., MAY 24, 1933 No. 29

Track Team Will Compete In State Conference Meet

Runners Oppose Vermont, Norwich at Northfield Saturday

UNBEATEN PANTHERS WILL DEFEND TITLE

Close Contests are Expected In Dashes and Middle Distance Races

Middlebury's undefeated track team will journey to Northfield Saturday to defend its Green Mountain Conference title against Vermont and Norwich.

Although Coach Brown's men have won the triangular meet easily for the past several years, competition seems to be keener this season. Both Norwich and Vermont have several individual stars who seem certain to be big point winners in their events. Norwich, with several excellent men in the field events and strength in the sprints might muster enough upsets to surprise the Middmen. U. V. M. has been handicapped all season by injuries, but Saturday will probably see their men in good shape. The Panthers present a better balanced team than either of their opponents, but will have to be in top form to meet successfully the threats of the Catamounts and Horsemen.

The Blue and White aggregation has won four meets this season. The Middlebury men opened with a victory over Williams by a 75-60 score. They then proceeded to overwhelm the Montreal athletic association, 90-45. The Panthers 44¾ points proved sufficient to win the Eastern Intercollegiates, and last week Union was overcome 68 to 58.

Norwich opened the season with a closely contested victory over Boston university by a 68-67 count. The Cadets scored 21 points to take third in the Intercollegiates and lost to the Connec-

Rushing Rules For Next Year Adopted

Visiting Period is Shortened to One Week by Decision Of Interfraternity Council

Rushing rules for 1933-34 were adopted by the interfraternity council this week. They are substantially the same as last year's, with a shortening of the visiting period. Subject to ratification by the individual fraternities, these rules will become effective with the opening of rushing season next fall.

One week instead of two will be allowed for visiting this year, and the actual rushing period will be moved ahead seven days, so that pledge day will be October 14, or the end of the third week of classes.

An additional rule was added to the set of last year. This regulation, number 15, provides that "When one fraternity is visiting a Freshman in his room, it is to be expected that other fraternity groups will not enter until the visiting group has remained a reasonable length of time."

As in previous years, the actual rushing week will be divided up into three periods, with one date for each fraternity in each. Acceptance of bids is prohibited in the initial two days, and no formal pledges are to be made until Saturday.

The bond of $300 for over-pledging used last year will be retained, the whole sum to be forfeited if more than fifteen men are pledged.

Parker Speaking Contest To be Held this Evening

The Parker prize speaking contest will be held in Mead memorial chapel this evening at 8:15. Five freshmen will compete for three prizes.

The speakers and their subjects are as follows: Charles A. Deedman, "Another Great Moment in History"; Herbert F. Irish, "China—A Challenge to American Integrity"; Charles H. Startup, "Religion in the Modern World"; Jack Steele, "The Economics of Isolation"; and Archibald C. Tilford, "Prohibition".

The competition is in charge of Prof. V. Spencer Goodreds. The judges will be Prof. Douglas S. Beers, Prof. Phelps N. Swett, and Mr. Ben Stewart.

Gifts from Daniel Parker in 1807 and Prof. Frederick Hall in 1820 resulted in the establishment of the Parker prizes. They are awarded annually to the freshmen men who are adjudged the best speakers. This year, the prizes amount to $50, $35, and $25.

"Fashion" Will Be Given Senior Week

Five Act Comedy Revival of New York Society to Be Presented June 9 and 10

"Fashion", the five act comedy produced by the dramatic department as a part of the junior week program, will be presented twice during senior week, June 9 and 10. The first performances of the comedy revival by Anna Cora Mowatt were most enthusiastically received.

The play was first given before the American audience in the fifties of last century, and had a revival by the Provincetown players about ten years ago. The rise of the Tiffany family from a low to a high station in New York society life is shown with all its attendent difficulties, an emphasis being given to the part fashion plays in such social climbing. Prof. V. Spencer Goodreds is in charge of the production.

Campus Drinking Rule Is Changed To Stress Conduct

Regulation 28, Endorsed and Withdrawn by Trustees In 1924 is Dropped

COLLEGE EXCLUSION RIGHT SUBSTITUTED

Action is Taken at Meeting of Faculty Held Last Thursday, May 18

Rule Twenty-eight, Section Eight of the Regulations of Middlebury College, concerning the use of intoxicating liquors, was rescinded at a meeting of the faculty Thursday afternoon. Responsibility for the maintenance of student temperance was thereby shifted to Rule Twenty-seven, which emphasizes the conduct of campus citizens.

The rule removed from the regulations was endorsed by the trustees in June 1924 and the endorsement was withdrawn at the next meeting, December 8, 1924, leaving its enforcement in the hands of the president. It stated that "any student known to possess or indulge in intoxicating liquors, as defined in the prohibition enforcement laws of the United States, shall be held as having automatically severed his relation with the college, unless in the judgment of the administration it seems wise to make an exception".

Rule Twenty-seven reserves to the college "the right to exclude at any time students whose conduct or academic standing it regards as undesirable . . ."

Next Middlebury Night to Be Men's College Smoker

The next annual Middlebury Night program, scheduled for September, 1933, will take the form of a men's college smoker, instead of the usual evening of speeches, songs, and band music, it was announced yesterday by Dean Burt A. Hazeltine, in a meeting of the men's college held after chapel.

It was pointed out that Middlebury Night, though originally designated as a reunion of the three upper classes and a greeting for the freshmen, had degenerated into a gathering of the incoming class, with a scattering attendance of upperclassmen.

In order to correct this condition, the committee in charge of freshman week events recommended the institution of a smoker informal in nature for the men of Middlebury. This was approved yesterday by a practically unanimous show of hands. It is hoped that an early acquaintance with the freshmen will be facilitated by this plan.

June Saxonian Will Be Distributed Soon

Recently Elected Board to Put Out Largest Issue Of the Scholastic Year

The June issue of the Saxonian will be distributed either the last of this week or the first of next, according to an announcement by Elizabeth W. Higgins '35, editor-in-chief. This is the first number published by the new board, and will be the largest of the year.

Eight officers were elected by the board to complete the new staff, Thursday, May 15. John Israel Smith '35, Mary P. Hall '34, and Carol G. Lee '35 were chosen associate editors. The contributing editors are Winifred W. Bland '34, Annette J. Chapman '36, Elizabeth Trask '36, Patricia Willcox '36. Kenneth C. Batten '35 will serve as assistant business manager.

Plans Completed For Senior Week Beginning June 9

Class Day Will Be Saturday With Baccalaureate Sunday Morning

DR. FINLEY TO SPEAK AT COMMENCEMENT

Jean Calloway's Band Will Play at Traditional Ball Monday

Plans for the 1933 senior week which will begin Friday, June 9 and close Monday, June 12 have finally been completed. This will be the one hundred and thirty-third annual commencement of the college.

The traditional features of class day will be observed Saturday morning with the reading of the class history, prophecy and will. After this the tree planting will take place.

Sunday the baccalaureate service will be given in Mead chapel and Monday morning the commencement exercises will be held in the Congregational church after the procession of trustees, faculty members, and seniors has marched there from Old Chapel. Dr. John H. Finley, associate editor of the New York Times, is to deliver the address.

There will be meetings of the Alumni council and Alumnae association during the day Saturday with a luncheon at Battell cottage that noon. In the afternoon there will be a reception on the lawn of the President's home for members of the graduating class, alumni, faculty and friends of the college. The college band is to give a concert on the campus in the evening which will be followed by the alumni informal dance in the gymnasium. Another feature on Saturday's program is the baseball game with Saint Michael's. "Fashion" is to be re-

1935 Kaleidoscope May Be Postponed

Payment of Subscriptions by Class in September is Required for Publication

Publication of the 1935 Kaleidoscope next year is very uncertain, Leland O. Hunt, editor-in-chief of the book, warned the sophomore class at a meeting after chapel this morning. Unless the entire class is willing to pay the ten dollar assessment at registration time in September, the book will not appear next year.

This action by the Kaleidoscope board followed the rejection by the class of the proposal advanced at a meeting last Thursday, that the annual be changed from a junior publication to a senior one, consequently resulting in the non-appearance of a book next year.

At the same meeting, it was announced that it would be impossible for the college administration to consider the suggestion that the Kaleidoscope be charged to all students on the term bills at a lower price.

Pending definite decision on the financing of the book, no contracts for its publication will be signed, according to Hunt. It is felt that this delay will entail no disadvantage to the editors in their work, since usually little is accomplished until October or November, even if contracts are signed in the spring.

NOW IS THE TIME

Three weeks remain before the end of the college year. We wish to make a plea for definite action on the sorority question within that time.

Ever since last May, but especially since the vote of the freshmen women was taken in March, the fate of the groups on this campus has been extremely doubtful. Realizing what this year of indecision has meant to many of the sorority women and what it has demanded of them, we urge upon the proper authorities the need for taking a definite step toward the settlement of this most vital matter.

We wish to advocate a revote among the freshmen women to determine whether or not their attitude has changed now that they have been given a chance to view sororities from a more natural angle. The results of this ballot should have a certain degree of weight with any decision which is made.

This is not intended as a partisan expression of opinion, but merely as a demand for immediate action and a final decision which will leave the best of feeling with both factions—win or lose. —Mary K. Carrick.

NEXT SEPTEMBER

In less than four months the doors of Middlebury College will open again for a new term. Anticipating the year ahead, The CAMPUS herewith considers several problems pertinent to Middlebury, and makes urgent recommendations in each case.

The Dispensary Fee

The present three dollar health tax is almost exclusively a measure for the prevention of illness, furnishing dormitory visits by the college nurse and nothing more. Additional expense is automatically involved whenever a student requires hospital or physician care. It has been clearly demonstrated how the present preventive service could be increased to include curative service by a health tax of eight dollars. As much as a week's ward treatment at Porter hospital and limited calls by a trained physician could thus be supplied without additional cost during the year. This suggested fee is a liberal maximum, determined by simple calculation, based on consultation with hospital authorities.

In view of these facts, the CAMPUS strongly urges the proper adjustment of this fee for September bills, to bring adequate free medical attention and care throughout the year.

A Blanket Publications Tax

The class of 1935, faced with the problem of Kaleidoscope production in trying times, has considered, at rather verbose lengths, both the deferment of publication until the senior year, and the inclusion of its cost on all term bills, together with the CAMPUS and the Saxonian. The greater benefit to Middlebury of a junior yearbook is obvious. Before the blanket publications tax is decided by the student body at large, the following fundamental questions must be answered:

Is the advantage of budgeting the production on a definite college-collected subscription fund, together with the automatic reduction in the individual expense of the book, sufficient to outweigh the fact that at present the Kaleidoscope subscription does not greatly exceed fifty percent of the student body, juniors included?

Is the Saxonian of sufficient literary benefit to the college and to its contributors, in excess of the benefit the latter receive in regular English courses, to warrant its continued inclusion as a required three dollar tax?

The CAMPUS recommends that these questions be sanely decided before the blanket publications tax is put to student vote.

Interfraternity Bond

Next September will mark the continuation of last year's improved rushing system, with a three hundred dollar bond posted by each fraternity represented in the council, against infraction of any of the rules. In its present wording, this bond requirement penalizes pledging more than fifteen men in one college year by the full forfeit of the bond. Additional over-pledging is without further penalty.

We feel that if the bond is to become fair and effective, a clause must be inserted which demands progressive fines for exceeding the fifteen man limit. Three hundred dollars for sixteen pledges, with fifty dollars added for every additional pledged man would check unlimited pledging, once the bond is exceeded; insure a more selective delegation in each house; and result in an essentially fairer treatment of every fraternity at Middlebury.

Poking About

—by Doris G. Anderson

If Old Chapel were a castle in England, or even if it were an old deserted American mansion, its ghost of ten years ago would have a varied and wonderful history. Short as its story is, however, it was of interest even to Sir Arthur Conan Doyle.

One evening late in the April of 1923, Mrs. H. E. Nichols of Brooklyn set up a camera on the platform of the assembly room in Old Chapel, before the right-hand back window, in order to take a picture of Mead chapel at night. When the picture was developed, it contained not only a reproduction of the new chapel, but also, to the side of the building, an image of the head and shoulders of a human figure draped in a robe. The figure seemed to hover some distance outside the Old Chapel window, and wore a thoughtful expression.

Great was the consternation in Middlebury when the fact became known. There was a disquieting feeling that the photograph might have been of the spirit of Joseph Battell, whose eccentric nature might have warranted this desire to have his spectral picture taken. Thereupon all the girls in Battell Cottage began to hear queer noises from dark parts of the dormitory at night, and to see new strange shadows flitting about on the walls. When President Moody quieted that theory by his observation that the ghost wore a moustache while Joseph Battell was not in the habit of wearing one, imagination found material in the resemblance of the unknown face to the features of Harvey D. Kitchell who had been president of the college from 1866 to 1875.

The college students felt that it would be uncomfortable to live with a ghost whose habits were generally unknown, so Edwin Long, a sophomore, set about to explain the apparition. Working on the basis that images can be reflected only by things material, he analyzed every hypothesis presented to him. It was proven that the plate had been well washed before it was used, and that there was no possibility of a reflection from one of the oil paintings in the room or from anyone present at the time.

Long studied the building and its surroundings, and discovered that an arc lamp shone from the north directly into the Latin room on the second floor, but its light was excluded from the assembly room on the third floor by trees and from the first floor rooms by a bank of earth. The light of the arc lamp would fall directly upon,—a statue. An exciting investigation revealed a close similarity between the features of the statue and those of the ghost. But there was an almost insurmountable difficulty to overcome. How could the reflection, in space, of a statue on the second floor be caught by a camera on the third floor? There was a solution somewhere, and Long determined to find it. Only by some process of refraction could an image be so reflected. With this in mind, the enthusiastic ghost-chaser at length discovered two imperfections in the glass of the Latin-room window facing west. One of these would both bend the light rays and act as a lens to focus them. An experiment proved that the solution had been found, and all the rumors that were well on their way to establishing a ghost for Middlebury were scientifically put to rest.

Shreds and Patches

—by L. Judson Morhouse

The boating situation at Middlebury has become rather a problem of late. First they put a new lock on the boathouse and tried to charge fifty cents to take out a canoe. Then when somebody who didn't have fifty cents broke the lock and took out a canoe anyway, they got sore and wouldn't play, with the result that several canoes are locked in the boathouse to rot. That's great. That's swell.

The run of mystery thrillers at the local theatre has had us sleeping with the lights on for the last week. When a female reporter slapped a sculptor's face in "The Mystery of the Wax Museum" and knocked off all the wax disclosing his mutilated map, we landed three and a half rows back, right in the aisle. And the moral is, co-eds, don't slap your boy friend's face. It might fall off. (If you lads begin to do better, you know who to thank).

The freshman classes from both sides of the hill went on a picnic last Saturday that was wet both literally and figuratively. Riding in the rain, swimming and canoeing in the same, with a little dancing to the music of an inaudible victrola which made fine scratching noises—that's a picnic. To our minds the boys dressing room was expressive of a share of the whole occasion. Ask anyone.

A gigantic struggle was enacted last week between the men and women field hockey players with hot dogs and coffee to match. But the whole thing was unfair. The women played out of position and hit the ball with the wrong side of the stick and everything. If it wasn't "sticks", it was "bulley" and what can you do against a language as foreign as that?

Glee club charms were presented with much ceremony at chapel and were received by some with embarassed grins, by some with a determined poise, and still others carried an enviable nonchalance. From what we hear about the trips the club takes we wonder whether the word "glee" is derived from the way the audience receives the club or from the way the club receives the audience—especially when singing at a female institution.

The appearance of the seniors at Sunday chapel in caps and gowns was an amusing diversion. It's so much easier to watch a senior being determined not to let the cap tassel tickle the nose than watch the choir being used to it. And who was it who wanted to know, "Are THOSE the seniors?"

Since the installation of a new beer joint downtown with others in the bud we foresee a time when it will take at least three hours to get from the theatre to the diner and then you won't want anything to eat.

The disappearance of a fifteen year old girl in town has caused no little disturbance. The kidnappers will get you if you don't watch out. Or maybe if our cleaning woman is right, the child just ran off with some young fellow. But if there's any kidnapping to be done, let's all cooperate in this and hand in suggestions like a CAMPUS Questionnaire to see who is the most popular kidnapping prospect. No fair picking on the Deans, now.

Comprehensives have started and a gloomy atmosphere hangs heavy over the campus. We read an article in College Humor titled "nothinko" which gives the easiest way to pass exams. For instance, if you have to remember the names of five English poets, you take the first letters of their names and make a sentence of five words, each word of which starts with the same letter as the poet's name. Suppose you want to remember Shakespeare, Chaucer, Spenser, Milton, and Pope. You get a sentence like "Sarah's Cat Spits Mothballs Poorly" and a possible seventy. Yes, we said possible.

We read t'other day where someone collected a thousand pieces of soap from public wash rooms and tried to find germs on them. But nary a germ could be found. All of which goes to prove you can use your roommate's soap all you want to—or anybody's for that matter. That is, anybody's but ours.

COMMUNICATION

To the editor of the CAMPUS:

The more intimately one is connected with such an organization as the Glee Club, the more one understands its shortcomings. The more one appreciates, therefore, such generous recognition as that of last week's editorial. For the Glee Club, I want to thank the writer for his courteous appreciation of our efforts. But he raises some controversial points.

The simplest method of clarifying these issues is to make clear, from the point of view of the directors, the purposes of the Glee Club. There are several ways in which Glee Clubs may function in a college community. Unfortunately certain of these functions may be utilized only at the expense of others—for example, it is impossible for us here at Middlebury to prepare a difficult program for a series of out of town concerts and at the same time to take any considerable part in campus activities. When we have required five hours of rehearsals each week from September to April, we cannot justly ask the members of the Glee Club to appear, as members of the organization, at many college functions. I might add, however, that the Glee Club has never yet refused any definite invitations to take part in college activities. We do not sing at the rallies for the simple reason that we have never been asked to lead the singing there. We feel a certain hesitation in pressing our services upon an unwilling public. Be that as it may, if we have to choose between opportunities for campus activity and opportunities for securing coast to coast hookups with the National Broadcasting Company, we feel we are doing the college a greater service by using our available time for those rehearsals which make possible the securing of such broadcasts.

Incidentally, my acquaintance with glee club directors and with their activities leads me to believe that the writer of the editorial is not correct in his statement that "at many institutions the glee clubs lead the singing at rallies and general meetings." He is also a bit careless in his statement to the effect that the Glee Club completely ignores Middlebury songs as soon as the football season is over. At every regular concert which the Glee Club has presented under my direction—something over a hundred—the Glee Club has sung at least four college songs, and an explanation of the Middlebury traditions which the songs celebrate is always made from the stage. On every broadcast presented over a period of seven years, we have sung at least two college songs. If presenting Middlebury music over a nation wide hook-up can be called ignoring such music, I concede the point.

We believe that the primary function of our Glee Club is to advertise the college as competently as possible. Now, the standards of glee club singing today are almost professional in their exactions. In order to secure any standing at all, long and unremitting labor is necessary. Demands upon the time of the organization which are of secondary importance must be rigidly excluded. Those who criticize our apparent lack of interest in domestic affairs might consult our concert schedules and then inquire if any other undergraduate activity reaches a larger outside public. Perhaps our lack of local activity might be pardoned on that score. As for that, the Glee Club has made seven local appearances during the past year. The football team is not expected to conduct daily setting up exercises for the student body; no more should the Glee Club be expected to exercise a general supervision of choral affairs.

The second function of the Glee Club is, in our opinion, to create a taste for and an appreciation of good music among the students comprising the organization. We also hope to convince those who attend our concerts that Glee Clubs are musical organizations with serious aims, worthy of the intellectual standards of the educational institutions which they represent. There is complaint that our programs are too heavy. It is obvious that standards are relative and that a program which might be considered heavy in Mead chapel might be considered trashy in Symphony Hall. In my opinion, the existence of glee clubs can be justified only on the ground that they form and do not follow musical taste. If interest in our Glee Club's activities can be secured only by lowering the quality of its work, then we shall have to forfeit such support. Cheap or so-called popular music has no more place at a Glee Club recital than has Kate Smith on a Galli Curci program.

The directors of the Glee Club welcome criticism of its activities. We hope that in the future the Club will be of more service than it has been in the past. We assure the college that any invitations to be of such service will be warmly welcomed. But we hope that we shall not have to secure interest in our work by a lowering of those standards which we labor rather strenuously to attain.

H. G. OWEN.

Some things you can Prove—

JUST trying a package or two will show you that Chesterfields are Milder and Better-Tasting. But you can't learn much about why they're that way... except by taking our word for it.

Wherever cigarette tobaccos are on sale, there you will find our buyers, busy picking out and purchasing ripe, mild tobaccos—almost good enough to eat.

Then they are blended and cross-blended—Domestic and Turkish both—in just the right proportion... so that there'll be just one good flavor and aroma.

Dartmouth Golf Team is Victorious in Final Match

The Middlebury golf team lost its final match of the season to Dartmouth last Wednesday by 6-0. The score is not a good index of the respective abilities of the teams, however, since the Blue and White should have scored in at least two matches.

Pickens, Olson and Leete played good golf, while Captain Riccio was not on his usual game. The Middmen were unfamiliar with the Hanover course and found difficulty in judging distances. The Green and White team knew the course and made good use of this knowledge.

Olson and Leete carded the best scores for Midd with 78 each. All the Dartmouth men scored in the low 70's, and Captain Hicks starred with an even 70.

Summaries:

Twosomes: Hicks (D) defeated Riccio (M), 7 and 6; Birch (D) defeated Pickens (M), 2 and 1; Ogg (D) defeated Leete (M), 2 and 1; Ryder (D) defeated Olson (M), 4 and 2.

Foursomes: Hicks and Birch (D) defeated Riccio and Pickens (M), 6 and 4; Ogg and Ryder (D) defeated Leete and Olson (M), 4 and 2.

Baseball Team Will Play Three Games

Panthers Meet Tufts Here Friday, St. Michael's and Cadets in Later Contests

The Middlebury baseball team will wind up its season by playing three games, two at home and one away. Friday at 3:00, Tufts will furnish the opposition at Porter field while next Tuesday the Panthers journey to Northfield to play a return game with Norwich. On Saturday, June 10, St. Michael's will come here to end the Green Mountain conference season.

Tufts comes here with an enviable record, having won fairly regularly this season, and with a one sided victory over Northeastern to their credit. Comparative scores show this team to be the strongest to be encountered on the Blue and White's home diamond and an interesting game is expected.

The Panthers will have a slight edge over Tufts in hitting ability and with effective pitching should be able to keep the scoring close. Stefaniak or McDermott will be on the mound and there will be few changes in the lineup for Middlebury. Stevenson will play third while the outfield positions will be divided between Bakey and Guild in the left field, Williams and Dumas in center and probably Barker in right.

The batting order will see Stevenson starting, followed by Bakey or Guild, Sorensen, with Barker as cleanup man. Stefaniak, or McDermott, Williams or Dumas, Hoehn, Zawistoski and Hartrey follow in that order.

Norwich appears to be a set-up for the Panthers, their record for the year being very poor. The Cadets have been beaten four times in conference competition, each time by large scores.

St. Michael's is very strong this year, and will come to Middlebury either with the state title clinched or in a tie with U. V. M. They have won four victories in four starts in conference games, including a 9-8 triumph over the Panthers at Winooski. A victory for the Saints appears quite likely, but with steady pitching and good support, Middlebury may take them over.

Netmen Lose to Vermont But Defeat St. Lawrence

By winning from St. Lawrence 7-0 on Wednesday and losing to U. V. M. on Friday 4-1, the Middlebury tennis team finished its 1933 season. In the first match held on Hepburn courts, the Panthers completely outclassed the visitors, none of the matches going to three sets.

Summary:

Allen (M) defeated Kaplan (St. L.) 6-2, 6-4; Flagg (M) defeated Howe (St. L.) 6-1, 8-6; Rudd (M) defeated Van Heusen (St. L.) 6-4, 6-3; LaForce (M) defeated Foote (St. L.) 6-0, 6-3; Volkmar (M) defeated Folsom (St. L.) 6-2, 6-4; Allen and Flagg (M) defeated Kaplan and Howe (St. L.) 6-0, 6-2; Rudd and LaForce (M) defeated Foote and Van Heusen (St. L.) 6-2, 6-2.

Friday the Blue and White netmen journeyed to Burlington, where they bowed to U. V. M., 4-1. The Panthers had previously tied the Vermont team 3-3 at the Middlebury courts, but on their home courts the Green and Gold were decidedly superior.

Summary:

Wilson (V) defeated Allen (M) 9-7, 3-6, 7-5; Meyer (V) defeated Flagg (M) 1-6, 6-4, 6-2; Woodward (V) defeated Rudd (M) 10-8, 6-1; LaForce (M) defeated Mulcahy (V) 7-5, 3-6, 9-7; Wilson and Meyers (V) defeated Allen and Flagg (M) 6-3, 6-3.

The second doubles match was stopped by darkness.

The return match with St. Michael's, scheduled for Saturday, was rained out and will not be played off. Middlebury easily defeated the Mikemen here May 13, by a 9-0 score.

Coach Brown Honored

Coach Arthur M. Brown, director of athletics at Middlebury, was chosen first honorary vice-president of the Eastern Intercollegiate Track Association at a meeting of that body held at Worcester, Mass., Saturday, May 13.

PANTHER TO ENTER CONFERENCE MEET

ticut Aggies 80½ to 54½. Vermont defeated St. Lawrence in the opening meet by a very close score. The Green and Gold then lost to Rensselaer Tech 91-44 and to the Montreal A. A. by 78 to 48.

The outcome of the 100-yard dash depends largely upon whether Smith of Vermont has sufficiently recovered from a leg injury to enter competition. Smith had done the century in ten flat and, if he has returned to form, the contest with Rowley of Norwich and Cady of Middlebury, who finished first and second in the Intercollegiates should be one of the most exciting of the meet. Smith and Rowley will also be entered in the 220. Prochazka and Montgomery of Middlebury took first and second respectively at Worcester in that event and have an even chance to win Saturday.

The 440 and 880-yard runs should produce close contests between Delfausse of Vermont and Hoxie of Middlebury. Both runners have been consistently winning the middle distance races in excellent time. Boehm of Middlebury and Wesoly of Vermont have been placing in the 440. Forbush of Middlebury showed himself to be reckoned the favorite in the 880 by his splendid 2:03.2 half-mile against Union.

The mile is a toss up with good material representing each team. Woodruff and Brooks of U. V. M., Short and Seymour of Middlebury, and Dickenson of Norwich all have a good chance to win. Sears of Middlebury should win the two mile run without much trouble. Harwood of Vermont, King of Norwich, and Cushman of Middlebury will provide his chief opposition, but the diminutive Panther distance man seems a safe bet to remain undefeated for the season.

MacLean of Middlebury should keep his title in the 120-yard high hurdles against Stalker of Norwich, Walters of Vermont, and Roberts of Middlebury. The 220-yard low hurdles will probably be a contest between Delfausse of Vermont, and Mathewson and MacLean of Middlebury, with Mathewson having the best chance to win.

Little knowledge of comparative strength is available in the high jump. Each team is entering several contestants in this event in hope of garnering several points. Delfausse of U. V. M. and Smith of Norwich seem outstanding. The pole vault will find Smith of Norwich who tied for first in the Intercollegiates, favored. MacKenzie of Middlebury and Sowka of Vermont should be able to provide his chief competition. Cady of Middlebury, Eastern Intercollegiate champion, is the best bet to win the broad jump, but Terrill (N), Delfausse (V), and Brown (M), should push him to the limit.

Norwich should score heavily in the weight events. McGuire won the shot put and discus in the Eastern Intercollegiates, and it would not be surprising to see him win those two events and possibly the hammer in the coming meet. His teammate, Lamaire, is also handy with the weights. Cook (V), Lombardy (M), Watson (M), and Erkkila (M) also promise to place well in the field events. Lovell of Middlebury looks like a sure winner in the javelin.

Robert L. Smith, Colgate Captain, New Line Coach

Arthur M. Brown, director of athletics, announced today that Robert L. Smith has been signed as assistant coach of football for the 1933 season, to succeed Robert W. Gillson, who will take a position as line coach at his alma mater, Colgate.

Mr. Smith is also a Colgate man, graduating from the New York institution this June. Last season he captained the undefeated Maroon team, and was prominently mentioned as All-American guard.

Coming from Colgate, whose head coach, Andy Kerr, is the leading Eastern exponent of the Warner system, Smith will find little difficulty in being of assistance to Coach Beck, who teaches the same system. Smith will undoubtedly confine his efforts to the business of coaching the Panther line candidates, as did Gillson last year.

Commencement was once held in August.

High School Track Meet Here Saturday

Seventeen Teams Will Take Part In Events Sponsored By Athletic Department

Seventeen Vermont high schools will participate in the invitation Interscholastic track and field meet sponsored by the Middlebury physical training department at Porter field Saturday afternoon at 1:30, according to Arthur M. Brown, director of athletics.

The team scoring the most points will be awarded a silver cup, and individual first, second, and third place winners will receive medals. Close competition for the team trophy is anticipated.

Thirteen events, including the 100 yard dash, 220 yard dash, 440 yard dash, 880 yard run, one-mile run, broad jump, discus throw, javelin throw, pole vault, shot put, 120 yard high hurdles, and 220 yard low hurdles will make up the meet.

The college will provide the competitors with a training table lunch at Hepburn commons. At 9:30 a. m. a meeting of the faculty members and coaches from the schools represented will be held in the McCullough gymnasium.

Holy Cross, Boston College And Northeastern Defeat Panther on Baseball Trip

The Panther balltossers returned Sunday from a long Massachusetts trip, with a record of one victory and three defeats. Middlebury won easily from Boston university 8-5, but dropped the other three encounters to Holy Cross, Boston college, and Northeastern.

Holy Cross 7 - Middlebury 0

A hard-hitting, superior Crusader nine from Holy Cross battered out a decisive victory over the Panthers at Worcester Wednesday, 7-0. The home team found Stefaniak for three runs in the opening inning, and for four single counters in later stanzas. Sline, for Holy Cross, kept Middlebury's seven bingles well scattered.

Murray and Maynard each socked out home runs for the Worcester nine to figure materially in the scoring. Dumas was the only Panther batter to solve Sline's slants for more than a single bingle.

Middlebury 8 - Boston University 5

Playing steady ball behind Barker's effective pitching, Middlebury won the second game of the trip from Boston university Thursday by a score of 8-5.

Boston university secured a total of eleven hits to Middlebury's twelve, but were unable to group them to advantage and also were erratic in the field. Middlebury got off to an early lead with three runs in the first two innings, and was never headed thereafter. Barker, with five hits, including two doubles, was the star at bat.

Home runs by Boehner and Curran when they were most needed resulted in victory for the Boston college Terriers in the third game of the trip, 5-2.

The game was a pitchers' battle up to the eighth inning, with McDermott for Middlebury and Duffy of Boston being very stingy with hits. The Panthers hit safely only three times, while the strong Heights team got only seven off McDermott. Both teams played errorless ball in the field.

Panther Track Team Beats Union 78-68 in Fourth Straight Victory

Coming from behind in the last four events to overcome an early Union lead, the Middlebury track team, Eastern Intercollegiate champions, kept their record for the season clear of defeat by trouncing the Garnet, 68-58. Not until after the final event of the meet, the broad jump, was the Blue and White certain of victory.

Although the Union aggregation was admitted to be capable of providing rigorous competition for the Panthers, it was not expected to come as close to upsetting the undefeated Middmen as it did. A warm, windless day and a good track helped make the close competition result in some sparkling performances, including a new Middlebury record of 25 seconds flat in the low hurdles by Mathewson.

In the the first two events of the meet, the high jump and the shot put, Union was off to a four point lead, but nothing of an unexpected nature happened, as these were considered weak points in the Panther front. The first event to be run on the track brought the initial upset of a day that was to see others follow when Waldron of the home team snapped over the high hurdles ahead of MacLean. Although Waldron is by no means a poor timber-topper, and was expected to provide MacLean with fair competition, he was not favored to capture the event. The time, 15.9, was only fair.

The next track contest, the 100 yard dash, brought more surprises to Coach Brown's men. Sullivan of the Garnet captured the race in 10.3, and Jocelyn, who took a good second, scored the only Panther points. Cady, who was counted on to win, was off poorly, and never threatened.

The mile run resulted in a fast race and another Union win. Holleran led Short, Middlebury's chief hope, by a comfortable margin in the fine figures of 4:30.8. Short was clocked in 4:35, his best race of the year.

The quartermile, in which the Panthers have been cleaning up with commendable regularity in other meets, resulted is a distinct upset when Hill of the Schenectady racers legged around the oval in 52.1 seconds, ahead of Boehm and Hoxie of the Blue and White, who took second and third respectively. Boehm made the race a tight one for Hill up to the tape, but the Garnet runner managed to outfoot him in the homestretch.

Lombardy of Middlebury checked the tide with a win in the discus, but Union came back by taking the pole vault.

The two mile saw the beginning of the Panther drive for a victory. The slight and bespectacled Sears, who has not been defeated all season, ran his best race of the year to make a show of Union's Lape, a highly-touted performer, in the splendid time of 10:01.4.

In the 220, the following race, Middlebury again cut down the Garnet lead when Prochazka covered the furlong in 22.8, to win without too much difficulty from Sullivan. Hall of the Blue and White tallied his first point of the year by slipping in third place.

Continuing the business of gaining on the Union lead, Forbush uncovered a fast 2:02.3 half-mile to win the most stirring race of the sunlit afternoon from Holleran. Forbush, Holleran, and Hunter became entangled in bits of elbowing during the course of the running to add to the general zest of the contest.

In the next-to-last event of the meet, the low hurdles, Mathewson of the Panthers skimmed the barriers in the excellent time of 25 seconds to establish a new college record. MacLean followed in second place to put the anxious Middmen exactly one point in the van.

The broad jump brought out almost half the Blue and White team in a determined effort to preserve the slight advantage. Cady led the leapers with an even 21 feet to make the meet safe for Middlebury, with Jocelyn and Captain Brown garnering the other two places.

Dr. Robbins Delivers Address At Vespers

Speaker Claims Social and Medical Crusades Are of Greater Value than War

Dr. Howard Chandler Robbins, professor of pastoral theology at the General theological seminary in New York, preached the last vesper sermon of the year, Sunday.

The speaker chose two texts, the first from Nehemiah ii:17, "Come, and let us build up the wall of Jerusalem that we be no more a reproach." The second was taken from Isaiah lviii, "They that shall be of thee shall build the old waste places: thou shalt raise up the foundations of many generations: and thou shalt be called, The repairer of the breech, The restorer of paths to dwell in."

History books are written too much about wars and conquerors, instead of milder battles against disease and social injustice, according to Dr. Robbins. For example, a history of the nineteenth century deals at length with the conquests of Napoleon, but gives little space to Pasteur's experiments.

"The successors of Nehemiah are the men of integrating personality, the builders of the nation," said the speaker. "King Alfred, Isaac Newton, William the Silent, William Bradford, and George Washington were all Nehemiah's successors. Henry IV of France dreamed of a general council of Europe, thereby anticipating the League of Nations."

According to Dr. Robbins, the idea that "war is the proper breeding ground for the heroic things of human life," is pagan sentimentality. There are two fields, he believes, where one sees at its best the heroic work of life. First, the crusade against disease, termed by Pasteur the "peaceful strife of science". Recruits must be added to the ranks of science, for this is the kind of work in which Christians should be engaged.

The second field is the crusade against social injustice. "Dismal, hopeless poverty is a preventable evil," continued Dr. Robbins, "since it is but the ethical problem for redistribution of our overabundance." Generous social reconstruction is needed to redistribute what man already has. "This task lies before the church or organized religion of our generation," stated the speaker. "We must turn from the external conquest of nature to the inner recesses of man's spirit. Ignorance would be abolished, poverty alleviated, and the waste lands of the world populated, if we used but one tenth of the physical strength used in the Great War."
